The problem statement for the event is:

AQUEOUS NAIL LACQUERS

Nail fungal infections cause about 50% of nails abnormalities. These are prevalent and can develop in people of any age in finger nails or toe nails. The result is disfiguring and discolouring of the nails. Currently marketed formulations are available. However, they suffer from several drawbacks. Most of these are made up of flammable solvents too.

The seeker is interested in developing an aqueous, quick drying, patent non-infringing, medicated nail lacquers free of adverse effects for faster onset of action.
